

12-Region Plan Outlined For Bucks

Fifteen Bucks County departments and civic organizations are reviewing a comprehensive plan for the future development of the county which was presented to them by the Bucks County Planning Commission.

The plan which would extend over a 12-region area, is designed to eliminate some of the problems resulting from rapid growth, congested highways lined with commercial development, communities growing together and being engulfed by new development and the loss of open land.

Those are some of the problems which Mrs. Elinore R. Ridge, secretary of the commission, outlined as a preface to the presentation.

Future Growth

Franklin C. Wood, executive director of the Bucks County Planning Commission, discussed the factors relating to the plan including existing land development, natural features, objectives for further growth, and population projections in arriving at an overall plan for the county.

Wood stated the objectives for future growth are:

To conserve natural resources including water supply, stream valleys, forests, valuable farm land; and to preserve the existing investment in highways, schools and sites of historic significance;

To preserve and enhance the identity of communities through encouraging growth of town centers and preservation of intervening rural areas to prevent towns from merging into one sprawling metropolitan area;

To provide for a balanced population through the provision of housing for various age and income groups;

To concentrate development to permit more efficient provision of public services such as public water and sewer, school transportation, police and fire protection and refuse removal, and to discourage the scattering of isolated housing developments over the rural countryside and to encourage an orderly sequence of future growth in that communities would grow outward from a designated center.

Before Development

The widening of roads, new rights-of-way for highways, and the provision for water and sewer facilities would precede development rather than providing for these needs after growth has occurred.

The objectives were displayed graphically by means of a diagram, which showed the proposed relationship of each type of land use to the other. This concept indicated future regions of about 64 square miles with arterial highways (such as U.S. 611 and U.S. 202) crossing at the center, where the most concentrated development would take place. These centers would include regional shopping, apartments, and other types of multi-family dwelling units, and a civic center and light industry.

The center is shown to be ringed by suburban-type housing laid out as neighborhoods of about one square mile each. At the fringes of the region would be a rural greenbelt of farms, large parks and estates. Future expressways would extend through the greenbelts with industrial parks near

Meat Strike Still On As Talks Continue

The shutdown of meat departments in 475 supermarkets in a three-state area continued today as negotiators met in the office of federal mediator John Bello in Philadelphia in efforts to arrive at a settlement.

Good Evening!

Nerve-shattering weekend, but a nice one.

Navy torpedoes Army, Eagles chew up the Steelers and Green Bay out-slickers the Giants. Not much else of importance in the world... and ditto the coming Sunday when the Birds and the New Yorkers try to out-beef each other for the Eastern title.

John Mulligan's claim that he is still chairman of the Bucks County Democratic Party upheld by State Chairman Otis Morse and something tells us here's a decision the recalcitrant John Welsh isn't going to like.

You know, if these fellows continue feuding, the Democratic faithful are going to have to get together and start building their organization all over again.

And Dinah Shore, sweetheart of the TV no longer the sweetheart of husband George Montgomery as another of these so-called "perfect marriages" goes on the rocks after 18 years.

Human perfection wonderful until the frailties begin showing as so often they do.

We see where the Reading Railroad persists in its efforts to eliminate guards at that very busy Route 413 crossing at Langhorne station and it seems to us here is something township, boroughs and public should fight most vigorously.

Take guards away from that crossing and you'll have one of the most dangerous and potential disaster traps in all of Lower Bucks County.

Cuban Clown Fidel Castro now boasting that he's been a Communist all the time.

So what's new? We've been saying the same of him ever since he shot, murdered and terrorized his way into power.

December 4 it is and weather still holding scrumptiously.

Happiest fellers around here these days are the golfers. Fairways nearly as busy as in mid-summer.

Nowadays a penny saved will eventually be subject to taxation.

25,000 See Gala Christmas Parade

Cold weather did not cool the enthusiasm of about 25,000 persons who turned out Saturday at the Levittown Shop-A-Rama to watch the second annual Christmas parade sponsored by the Levittown Businessmen's Association.

Parade marshal was Congressman Willard S. Curtin, who led 31 units through the parade route. Tullytown Police Chief John Walterick, honored guest, rode in the second car as the marchers moved around the mall. The parade was confined to the limits of the Shop-A-Rama.

1,500 Head For Berlin

BERLIN (UPI)—A U.S. Army battle group of 1,500 men started rolling toward Berlin today where U.S. and Communist troops faced each other from positions less than 15 yards apart at the tense Friedrichstrasse crossing point.

The big troop movement had been scheduled previously but the beginning of it coincided with Communist actions in narrowing gaps in crossing points between East and West Berlin.

The Communists moved in troops and laborers Sunday night to reinforce their border barricades. Allied reaction was swift.

A platoon of American soldiers was rushed to Friedrichstrasse, apparently to guard against any Communist attempt to shut the crossing point completely. The Americans set up two machine guns and trained a bazooka on a heavy concentration of East German troops on the other side of the crossing point.

The French also rolled troops up to the border but the British took no special action. A spokesman said a company of British soldiers has been on border duty since the Communists closed the border in August.

Cuban Sugar Ban Extended

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy today extended until June 30, 1962, the flat ban on Cuban sugar imports into the United States.

By proclamation, Kennedy previously had set Cuba's sugar quota at zero through the end of this calendar year.

Today, he extended the ban through next June 30 "in the national interest."

4 Arrested After Chase In Morrisville

Four Trenton youths were arrested early yesterday morning after a police chase from Morrisville to Trenton. Today, the driver of the car was fined, and police were still holding the other three.

Morrisville Police report today that Thomas James McCutcheon, Jr., 23 of 600 S. Clinton Ave., Trenton, was fined $50 and $9 court costs on charges of disorderly and suspicious conduct and driving without a license.

A companion, Stanley Miller, 18, of 229 Dickerson St., Trenton, was still awaiting a hearing late this morning before Justice of the Peace Neal Nolan in Morrisville.

Both Juveniles

The two other youths, both juveniles, were being held by Trenton Police, who were investigating their Chicago records. Although both gave Trenton addresses, they reportedly are from Chicago, where they jumped $2,000 bail awaiting trial on the theft of six automobiles, Morrisville police said.

Morrisville Police officers Joseph DiGiorgio and Clifton Morris were patrolling in their police car around 1:30 a.m. yesterday, when they noticed a suspicious looking car on Washington St. near Morrisville police headquarters.

DiGiorgio decided to check the car out, since it was so early in the morning and the car contained several youths. The 1953 model car in which the youths were riding sped away, and police gave chase.

Cross Bridge

The youths crossed the Lower Bridge into Trenton, and, after DiGiorgio notified Trenton police by radio, the youths were arrested at Union and Bridge Sts., Trenton.

The two juveniles were held in Trenton, and the other two were returned to Morrisville.

The car was registered in McCutcheon's wife's name, Betty. McCutcheon, after appearing before Justice of the Peace Nolan, late this morning was trying to raise the $50 so he could be released. The Miller youth, who was on parole, was still awaiting his hearing, Morrisville police said.

Trenton police were also questioning the other two youths late this morning.

Morse Upholds Mulligan

Welsh To Press Claim As Chairman

John T. Welsh of Doylestown will press his claim for recognition as Bucks County Democratic chairman to Otis B. Morse IV, Democratic state chairman, on Thursday or Friday, he said today.

Welsh claims he was elected chairman and that county chairman John C. Mulligan was ousted last Thursday at the stormy county committee meeting in Hugh Carcella Community Hall, Fairless Hills.

This was denied by Mulligan, who said the meeting in which Welsh claimed to be elected was a "rump" session, occurring after he adjourned the legal meeting.

Mulligan Upheld

Morse yesterday upheld Mulligan as "the duly elected chairman."

"We have no tangible evidence that a certified election has been held for a new chairman," the state chairman said. "All we know is what we have been told by chairman Mulligan, and by John Welsh."

Showers Seen For Tomorrow

The weatherman said today's fair and mild weather, with the high temperature between 55-60 degrees, will be followed by cloudiness and some showers late tonight.

More showers are forecast early tomorrow, followed by clearing and a little colder weather tomorrow afternoon. Tonight's low temperature will be in the low 40s and tomorrow's high will be in the mid-40s.

The five-day outlook calls for the temperature to average five degrees above the normal of 37 degrees. Following tomorrow's cooler weather, a warming trend should set in Wednesday and remain through Friday.

Secret Vote

At the meeting one of Mulligan's bylaw amendments was unanimously adopted. The other, opposed by Welsh, was defeated 172-147. This vote was taken by secret ballot.

Mulligan then, after a voice vote on adjournment, closed the meeting. He and his supporters left. The lights were dimmed and the recording system was turned on full-blast.

12-Region Plan Outlined For Bucks

their interchanges with arterial roads.

After using the diagram to explain the objectives, Wood showed how this concept could be applied to an Ultimate Plan of 12 Regions for Bucks County. Some of the proposed centers are now highly developed, such as Bristol, Doylestown, Sellersville, Perkasie, and Quakertown; some partially developed, such as Southampton, and the Levittown-Fairless Hills Center, and some presently undeveloped including Wrightstown, Neshaminy and Bensalem.

Major rural greenbelt areas would include lands along the Neshaminy Creek, the Delaware River north of Morrisville, and the Rockhill - Haycock area across the northern section of the county. Expressway routes proposed are the Delaware Expressway (Philadelphia to New York), U.S. 1 Expressway (Philadelphia to Trenton), Northeast Freeway (Northeast Philadelphia to New York), Cross County Expressway, and a new river crossing below Bristol, Tacony Expressway (Philadelphia to Bethlehem and Easton), Piedmont Expressway (western by-pass around Philadelphia), and the existing Pennsylvania Turnpike and its Northeast Extension.

A plan for the year 1980 indicates how much of the ultimate plan would be completed by that time, based on a projected 1980 population of 558,000.

The group agreed that a coordinated effort would be necessary on the part of State, county and local officials; civic organizations and private industry to implement the plan, and recommended that the plan be published as soon as possible.

Present were Adolph A. Andrews, Bucks County commissioner; Samuel S. Gray, county solicitor; Mrs. Elinore R. Ridge, secretary, Bucks County Planning Commission; John Carson, Bucks County Water and Sewer Commission and Neshaminy Valley Watershed Association; Joseph Ceader, Bucks County Park Foundation and the Bucks County Historical Commission; Hal H. Clark, Bucks County Park Board and the Delaware Valley Protective Association; Dr. M. C. Delmanzo, Bucks County Park Foundation; Gordon Exley, executive director, Bucks County Industrial Development Corporation.

Wednesday, Dec. 20

Bristol: Bristol Consolidated Fire Company, Pond and Mulberry Sts.

Distribution hours will be from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on the above listed days.

Mullin announced that commodities distributed will be available to those persons who comply with the requirements of the program. He also asked applicants to bring boxes or bags to hold the food.

New applicants, Mullin stated, are to bring their Social Security number and proof of identity when applying at the distribution point. For further information call W. Ashland St., Doylestown, Fillmore 8-2182.

Meat Strike of the same union, the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Workmen.

But while other supermarkets and local stores were not involved in the dispute — they too felt the effect of the strike — in reverse.

Fresh Supplies

Many of the stores, swamped by the onrush of additional customers, found their supplies dwindling by Saturday evening. But this morning, many of the same stores opened with fresh supplies of meat, replenished Saturday night after closing.

Even if the strike were to be settled today, however, there was little likelihood that the three chains involved would be able to immediately supply their customers today.

Most stores in the chains, however, normally close at 6 o'clock Monday night, which would give them ample time to stock their counters for tomorrow's business.

The union has charged the closure of the meat departments in Food Fair and Acme markets constituted a "lockout," but the employers' council said it informed the union during negotiations before the strike was called that a strike against one of the companies was a strike against all three.

The strike affects stores of the three chains in Eastern Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey and Delaware. About 4,000 members of the meat cutters union are idled in the meat department shutdowns of the chains. About 3,000 other workers in other departments of A&P refused to cross the picket lines at A&P markets.

The striking A&P workers rejected what the employers' council called an "offer equal to or better than settlements reached by the same union and other retail food firms across the country."

The union members employed by Food Fair and Acme at a later meeting Sunday voted down a proposal to call a strike against those two firms but agreed to support the A&P strike.

$500 Bail Set For 2 Drivers

Drunken driving charges were brought against two men by Bristol Township police over the weekend.

Leonard Bergonia, 38, of 23 Good Lane, Levittown, was arrested at 3:05 a.m. Saturday at Haines Road and Farmbrook Drive by patrolmen Robert Clark and Richard Boyle of the Bristol Township force.

He was brought before Justice of the Peace William Oettinger and charged with drunken driving. Bail has been set at $500.

At 9 p.m. Saturday, Sidney Prosser, 35, of 2041 North 21st St., Philadelphia, ran off the road at 2518 Bath Road and broke down a cinder wall and storm door and windows in a residence at that address, police say.

Mrs. Emilie Barni, owner of the house, estimates damage at $2,000.

Prosser was taken to Lower Bucks County Hospital where he was pronounced unfit to drive.

He was brought before Justice of the Peace Rene Tritschler who set bail at $500.

Circus Worker Given Term

Raymond Clark, an unemployed circus worker, was sentenced Saturday to 30 days in Bucks County prison on a charge of vagrancy.

Clark pleaded guilty to the charge before Middletown Township Justice of the Peace Stephen Niecko, who committed him to prison, it was reported.

Clark was picked up at 8:30 a.m. Saturday as he walked along Route 1 in front of the Country Club Shopping Center, according to township police.

Noted Pathologist Testifies In Trial

By KEN RABBEEN
Courier-Times Staff Writer

CAMDEN, N. J. — One of the nation's top liver pathologists took the witness stand in Camden County Court this morning in the state of New Jersey's effort to prove that serum hepatitis contracted through improper sterilization techniques claimed the lives of 15 patients of Dr. Albert L. Weiner, 43-year-old Erlton, N.J., osteopathic neuro-psychiatrist.

He was Dr. Hans Popper, balding, short and speaking with a heavy German accent; he was born in Vienna.

His testimony was expected to be the key to the state's claim that this form of the virulent liver disease, and this only, claimed those 15 lives and also brought severe illness to 36 others of the neuro-psychiatrist's patients who recovered.

Lower Bucks Patients

Four of the dead and many of those who came down with the disease were residents of Lower Bucks County.

Dr. Popper, who is chief pathologist at Mt. Sinai Hospital, New York, and author of two books and dozens of medical journal papers on liver ailments, testified that he had examined slides from 14 of the patients who succumbed.

"In all cases," he said, "I saw a picture associated with viral hepatitis." The term "viral" covers two forms of the disease, serum and infectious, and is one of the bases of the contention between Camden County Prosecutor Norman Heine and Chief Defense Counsel Louis J. Pantages.

Heine claims that each instance of the disease was the serum form. Pantages said it was either infectious or toxic hepatitis, neither of which could be transmitted through improper sterilization.

Sees Slides Of Specimens

Dr. Popper saw slides of liver specimens from 14 of the patients who died and from several of those who recovered.

He could not distinguish between the two forms, serum or infectious hepatitis, without knowing the dates of the onset of the disease, he said. Serum hepatitis has an incubation period of six weeks to eight months, the infectious form of from two to six weeks.

However, his testimony seemed to rule against toxic hepatitis, caused by drug poisoning, which is another of Pantages' claims, since the doctor testified that one of the suspected drugs, marcalin, causes drug liver poisoning in only one out of 1,000 cases, and another, thiorazine, in no more than one or two percent of cases.

Ruels Out Metal Poisoning

He also said that alcoholism or metal poisoning could be ruled out in the cases.

The courtroom was crowded, with many medical men present to hear the celebrated liver specialist testify.

Middletown Fines Driver

A Haddonfield, N. J. driver was fined $60 Saturday night after Middletown Township police arrested him on charges that he did not leave his name and address after striking an unattended car belonging to a Levittown man.

Clive Potter, 31, was also charged with reckless driving. He pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace William Oettinger, Middletown Township, to striking a car belonging to Robert McGlone, 19 Emerald Lane, police said. McGlone's car was parked in front of 79 Lower Orchard Drive, Levittown, when it was struck.

Damage to McGlone's car was estimated at $315. Damage to Potter's was estimated at $500.

Potter received a scalp laceration in the crash, police said. The accident occurred at 11:50 p.m. Patrolman Edward Carber Jr. investigated.

Levittown Youth Hurt In Crash

A Levittown youth suffered scalp lacerations when his car struck a pole head-on Sunday morning, according to Middletown Township police.

Robert Dean Jr., 21, 32 Islet Road, Indian Creek, is being charged with reckless driving after he apparently lost control of his car as he tried to negotiate Bango's curve on Durham Road, police said.

Dean was taken to Lower Bucks County Hospital by the Pennel-Middletown Rescue Squad, it was reported.

The accident occurred at 3:10 a.m., yesterday.

Dominican Situation Seen 'Grave'

SANTO DOMINGO, D.R. (UPI) — Maj. Gen. Pedro Rodriguez Echavarria emerged victorious today from an attempt to oust him as armed forces chief but he appeared unable to stem a nationwide strike against President Joaquin Balaguer's government.

The strike went into its seventh day today with signs it was growing stronger.

Dr. Viriato A. Fiallo, president of the opposition National Civic Union, sent a message pleading with the Organization of American States (OAS) to send investigating committees to the Dominican Republic.

"The situation is extremely grave," Fiallo messaged. "The absence of civil power threatens the establishment of a supreme military power which would liquidate every trace of democracy."

Officers Resign

Thirteen air force officers submitted their resignations and appealed Sunday to President Balaguer to remove Rodriguez Echavarria for having "betrayed the patriotic ideals and thirst for liberty of our people..." The resignations were accepted.

The dissident air force officers also accused the 37-year-old military chief of trying to lead the country to a "military dictatorship."

Rodriguez Echavarria was appointed secretary of state for the armed forces last week after he helped prevent slain dictator Rafael Trujillo's brothers, Hector and Arismendi, from seizing control of the government.

Welsh said he and a group of supporters will visit Morse in the state Democratic headquarters later this week.
